

Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

✓ 1.9
EX 892 Flw

LIBRARY
RECEIVED
JUN 28 1939
S. Department of Agriculture

WHO'S WHO

AT THE NATIONAL
4-H CLUB
CAMP

1939

A L A B A M A

Mary E. Guarisco, Baldwin County, has made practical use of her 6 years' club experience in canning, clothing, poultry, foods, home improvement, and landscaping. She has put on exhibits, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and has represented her club in the style revue 3 years. Mary has held all the offices in her club.

Thomas H. Johnson, Jr., Tallapoosa County, started in club work 4 years ago, and has completed considerable work in cotton, corn, poultry, calf, and pigs. He has consistently exhibited his stock at the county fairs, been a member of the livestock-judging team and has given public demonstrations in cotton classing. Thomas has persistently practiced all the health habits outlined in the club health program. He served his club as reporter and is now president of the county council. He has a purebred Jersey heifer, a purebred Poland China gilt, and 400 white Leghorn chickens.

Annette Jones, Dale County, living on a 575-acre farm, has covered, during her 6 years' experience, a wide range of club work, including dairy cow and heifer, food preparation, poultry, baking, room improvement, health, and clothing. She has been active in the club health program, a member of the clothing, canning, and bread-judging teams, put on an exhibit each year and, as a member of the demonstration team, has given many demonstrations. She has filled the offices of club president, county council president, and is now vice president of the State council. Annette owns a cow, a heifer, and 25 chickens.

James Scott, De Kalb County, a 4-H member for 5 years, has successfully completed a variety of projects in cotton, poultry, corn, lespedeza, clover, and farm accounts. He has been a member of the livestock-judging team, and as a member of the demonstration team he has given public demonstrations in culling poultry and saving clover seed. He has led his club in the wildlife-conservation work for the northern part of De Kalb County. He has been president of the county council 2 years. James owns 1 calf and 100 chickens.

A R K A N S A S

Hubert Blanchard, Jr., Lawrence County, has had 5 years' experience in raising cotton, corn, and swine. He has been a consistent exhibitor and an active member of the livestock-judging team. Hubert has organized two new 4-H Clubs this year and is now president of the county council in addition to having served his club as president. He has a good-grade beef heifer, purebred Poland China boar, sow, and six pigs.

Rebecca Daniel, Nevada County, lives on a 229-acre farm and has been interested in gardening, canning, clothing, foods, and cookery, poultry, and room improvement during the past 10 years. For a number of years she has put on an exhibit, represented her club in the dress revue, and been a member of the judging and demonstration teams. Rebecca has been club secretary, president, reporter, county recreation leader, and president of the county council.

Lucille Freeman, Monroe County, started in club work 9 years ago and has completed projects on gardening, canning, poultry, clothing, home improvement, foods, and cookery. She has held all the offices in her club, has taken part in the dress revue 3 years, and has been a member of the judging team and also put on an exhibit many times.

Joe Boyd Henderson, Jefferson County, completed 8 years' activity in the following projects - poultry, sweetpotatoes, pigs, sow and litter. He has represented his club on the livestock- and crop-judging teams, and also has filled the offices of vice president and president. Joe owns 3 sows, 1 boar, 190 chickens, and 40 acres of land.

C O L O R A D O

Harold Maul, Larimer County, is interested in poultry, beef fattening, dairy, potatoes, and swine. At the county, State, and national shows, he has put on 15 exhibits during the past 7 years. He has been a member of several judging teams, has put on demonstrations in production of clean, wholesome milk, and was superintendent of the beef, hog, and sheep departments of the county junior fair in 1937 and 1938. He has filled every office in his club. Harold now has 7 Guernsey cows, 1 Guernsey bull, 2 Hereford steers, and 450 chickens.

Shirley Reid, Weld County, now in her eighth year of club work, has completed projects in gardening, clothing, potatoes, baking, meal preparation, calf, and home furnishing. Shirley has put on an exhibit each year, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and has represented her club in the style revue. Last year she and her sister supervised a summer recreational center for 25 children who had no place to play. During her club work she has fed 11 steers and is now feeding 2 steers and 2 heifers. Through 4-H activities she was able to finish high school. She has held all the offices in her club.

Richard Wayne Alford, El Paso County, living on a large farm, has enjoyed 8 years of club experience with sheep, crops, and calves. His chief interest being sheep, which he has exhibited each year. Richard has been a member of various judging teams and has given demonstrations in shearing and tying fleece, grading and judging wool. He has helped to plant 200 trees around the school grounds, has assisted with the recreational program, and has been instrumental in organizing two new sheep clubs. He plans to pay his college expenses with the income from his flock of registered Hampshire sheep. Richard has 96 head of sheep and a shorthorn steer. He has filled all the offices in his club.

Bernice Fletcher, Elbert County, has done good work in canning, poultry, clothing, and baking, during the past 7 years. Keeping records on her poultry proved very helpful in her work. She has exhibited her various club enterprises each year at the State and county fairs, has participated in the dress revue, and has helped to plant 300 trees. She has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and given demonstrations in killing and dressing chickens, and also meat canning. Bernice has filled all the offices in her club.

C O N N E C T I C U T

Richard Hamilton, Tolland County, has specialized in dairy husbandry throughout his 7 years as club member. About 4 years ago he organized a forestry club in which he has been active. He has kept farm accounts, and as a member of the State and county livestock-judging teams, he has done outstanding work. Each year he has exhibited his dairy animals and has given demonstrations in "selecting a herd replacement." He now owns four head of registered Jerseys. Richard frequently found it necessary to walk 10 miles to attend club meetings, and home again. He has been secretary, reporter, and president of his club.

Gertrude Lathrop, New London County, made practical use of her 7 years of club experience, which included poultry, baking, and clothing. She has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams and has consistently exhibited her club work. When illness made it necessary, Gertrude managed the household, canned 100 quarts of fruit and vegetables, and made jelly. She has been leader of a club of younger girls and has filled all the offices of her club.

William H. Newton, Litchfield County, began his 4-H Club work with a purebred Holstein calf, and during the past 3 years he has also been interested in raising colts. As a member of the judging team, he has been outstanding in cattle judging. William has exhibited dairy stock for 8 years, and has also shown colts for 3 years. He demonstrated "rope halter making," was assistant leader for the dairy club 2 years, and has filled the various offices of his club. William helps his father to operate their 150-acre farm.

Helen Reed, Hartford County, has completed 8 years of activity as a club member. Her chief interests are room improvement, clothing, and foods, and she has had many exhibits in these projects at the State and county fairs. Helen has found it well worth while to keep a personal account book. She has been an active member of several judging and demonstration teams, and has served as treasurer, president, vice president, and chairman of the program committee.

D E L A W A R E

Paul B. Hastings, Sussex County, living on a 210-acre farm, has had 7 years' experience in raising watermelons, poultry, and potatoes. In his wildlife-conservation work he raised pheasants for the State. Paul has been chairman of the program committee, and has put on an exhibit of poultry, eggs, and potatoes each year at the State fairs.

Emil Anthony Kielbasa, Kent County, has, during his 8 years' membership in the 4-H Club, made 187 entries of various projects at the State fairs, and been an active member of the judging team. His major interests have been poultry, farm accounts, and garden. He has been secretary, treasurer, vice president, and chairman of several committees.

Louise Meredith, Kent County, specialized in clothing club work during her 6 years' membership in the 4-H Club. She has represented her club in the dress revues, been secretary, president, and chairman of numerous committees.

Gladys Walmsley, New Castle County, is in her sixth year of club experience, carrying canning, dairy, and clothing projects. Gladys has put on a number of exhibits at the county fair.

F L O R I D A

Florence Evelyn Mears, Dade County, has made practical use of her 7 years' club experience in gardening, clothing, baking, food preparation, nutrition, and home improvement. She has given 25 exhibits in local, county, and State fairs. Florence has been a member of the clothing and canning judging clubs and, as a member of the demonstration team, has given demonstrations in food preparation and in table setting. Also, she has taken part in the county and State dress revues. Having filled all the offices of her club, she is now president of the county council.

Dorcus Cava Stone, Jackson County, has covered during her 7 years' experience a wide range of projects, including cotton, watermelon, pig, cow, calf, clothing, poultry, health, home and yard improvement, canning, peanut, corn, nutrition, and baking. She has had 76 local, county, and State exhibits, taken part in 45 demonstrations, and also has been a member of the judging team. Her club training enabled her to manage the house and plan and prepare all meals for 2 weeks. Since the death of her father, she and her two sisters help their mother to operate the 440-acre farm. Dorcus has occupied all offices in her club and for the past 3 years has been leader of the younger girls.

Everette Davis, Escambia County, started his 4-H Club work in 1933, when he signed up for a corn project. In the past 5 years he has added poultry, cotton, swine, potatoes, and peanuts. He has been a member of the judging team, quite active in the preservation of wildlife and natural resources, and has done considerable work in organizing and training younger boys in club work. He has been secretary, treasurer, and president of his club and is now president of the county council. He has 60 hens, a gilt, and 4 acres planted in crops.

Jack Prator, Pasco County, as a club member, has divided his time among poultry, dairy, pig, citrus fruit, and wildlife-conservation projects. Jack took a leading part in organizing clubs in small communities to help other boys obtain the benefit of training in 4-H Clubs. During the past 3 years he has been president of one of these clubs. He has put on exhibits, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and has filled all offices in his club. He has a cow, calf, citrus grove, and 250 chickens.

G E O R G I A

Dorothy Boyette, Lowndes County, has been a 4-H Club member 6 years, and has carried projects in gardening, canning, clothing, and cookery. She makes all her clothing and helps with the family sewing. She has represented her county and district in the State-wide 4-H style show the past 3 years. Last summer she put up 350 cans of fruit and vegetables. Through her room-improvement work many improvements have been made in and around her home, and she has refinished pieces of furniture. Dorothy has been active in the wildlife-conservation work. She has held several offices in the County Council and in her local club.

Kenneth Bramleet, Cobb County, has taken part in 4-H Club work the past 10 years. Cotton, corn, poultry, hogs, and cattle were his projects. Each year Kenneth has exhibited livestock at county and State fairs and, as a member of the county judging team, has done fine work in judging cattle. He has a Jersey calf, a Poland China sow, and 25 chickens. Kenneth has held offices in both the local and county club and now is leader of a club of 44 members.

W. B. Glosson, Ware County, has been a club member 4 years, in which time he has won many outstanding honors. He has specialized in tobacco and corn production. He did good work in judging crops and livestock, made a fine record in the county health contest and has been president of his club 3 years, president of the County Council, and vice president of the State Council.

Hazel Hardman, Madison County, a club member during the past 7 years, has had for her enterprises, gardening, nutrition, room improvement, cooking, food preservation, clothing, and poultry. Each year Hazel has canned a substantial quantity of food. Last year she canned 202 quarts for home use, and processed 86 pounds of dried food. When her mother attends farm women's week, Hazel manages the home, and finds her experience in cooking useful as she prepares the meals. She has exhibited canning and clothing at the State fair, has been sponsor of her local club 4 years and is now president of the County Council.

I L L I N O I S

Delbert W. Gabel, Kendall County, has included in his 4-H Club activities, dairy, beef, pig, and corn. He has put on livestock exhibits at both State and international expositions, and has been an active member of the demonstration and judging teams. Delbert has organized and led a 4-H Club of 19 members and has held all the offices of his club. He has 6 head of purebred Guernseys and 64 head of purebred Hampshire hogs.

Richard Harris, McDonough County, planted and harvested an acre of corn as his first club work. Later he added baby beef, sheep, and farm accounts. He is a member of the livestock and grain-judging teams, has put on livestock and corn exhibits, kept farm account records on the home farm, in the management of which he assisted materially. Richard has developed a flock of 24 head of grade Shropshire sheep, which he now owns. He has rendered valuable leadership services to his club and, in addition to having filled most of the offices, he is assistant leader of his club of 47 members.

Marjorie Kane, Lake County, specialized in clothing 8 years ago; later she added foods and meal planning to her club activities. She has been very successful in her ability as a seamstress, and has made all her clothes for a number of years. Dorothy has participated in the style revue several times, has exhibited foods and clothing each year and has been an active member of the county judging team. She has filled all the offices of her club and is now assistant leader.

Mary Lois Sunderland, Jersey County, has had many interesting experiences in her 8 years of club work, during which time she carried room improvement, foods, health, and clothing. She also has been leader of three clubs in her county the past few years. She has given demonstrations in removal of stains, yeast bread variations, and other subjects. She has been a member of the food-judging team and has exhibited food and clothing on many occasions. Mary believes that the activities of the health club have been an asset to her. She has held most of the offices in her club and is now secretary of the County Federation.

I N D I A N A

Robert Arvidson, Jr., Tippecanoe County, an outstanding 4-H Club member the past 8 years, has been a junior leader during the past 4 years. His work included poultry, garden, pig, corn, leadership, conservation, and entomology. In addition to exhibiting his projects successfully, he placed high in judging activities. He was the outstanding county swine-showman in 1937 and 1938. Robert now has 4 Duroc Jersey gilts, 10 shoats, 3 butchering hogs, and 100 chickens. He has made contributions to club work by his fine cooperation in community, county, and State 4-H events. He has filled the various offices of his club.

Mary Frances Ferguson, Vigo County, has been a 4-H Club member 10 years, during which time she has made a splendid record in clothing, canning, leadership, and food preparation. Mary Frances has taken an active part in judging, demonstrations, dress revues, and exhibits. At the fair she has been superintendent of the clothing exhibits. As junior leader for 5 years, she assisted the members under her supervision with their project work, demonstrations, judging, exhibits, and special programs. She has missed only one club meeting in 10 years. Mary Frances has served as secretary and as president of the county junior leaders' organization and was chairman of three committees.

Marybelle Halstead, Tippecanoe County, completed 37 projects during her 8 years of membership in a 4-H Club. The major projects were clothing, orchard, and canning. She also carried garden, calf, poultry, pig, and room-improvement work. Marybelle has served as junior leader the past 4 years, directing 191 club members, planning programs, helping girls in their homes and at the club meetings. She has taken part in practically all phases of club work, judging contests, giving demonstrations, and successfully exhibiting her club work. During the past 6 years she has made all her clothes. Her strawberry project in the past 5 years has financed most of her other projects. She has filled the offices of reporter, vice president, president, and also was chairman of several committees.

Everett Mishler, Elkhart County, an active club member for 8 years, has included in his club work sheep, corn, alfalfa, Jersey calf, colt, and farm accounts. He has been a junior leader 5 years, and most active in leading a large group for the past 3 years. In 1937 and 1938, in addition to leading his local club, he had charge of the county Jersey-calf club. These were successful years for this larger group of 50 members and the program was an active one. Everett has demonstration and judging experience, a good exhibit record in his county, and has exhibited lambs in the district market lamb show. Everett now keeps complete farm records. He has filled every office in the club, and has 10 Hampshire ewes, 2 Belgian horses, 1 yearling colt, and 3 dairy cows.

I O W A

Winifred Helen Brinkman, Pocahontas County, first undertook club work 6 years ago, and has specialized in canning, clothing, health, nutrition, room improvement, conservation, and farm accounts. On many occasions she has been a member of demonstration teams. Each year during the past 5 years she has exhibited her club enterprises at the State fair, has been active in wildlife conservation and also yard improvement. She believes there is scarcely a part of her home that has not been touched by her experience and methods learned in club work. Winifred has never missed a club meeting. She has served as president and local historian of her club.

Wallace Lang, Poweshiek County, has completed 8 years of club work in corn, pig, and dairy-animal production. At the State fairs he has not only been active in judging livestock, but for the past 8 years has successfully exhibited pigs and dairy heifers. He now has 1 purebred Angus steer, 4 head of purebred cows and heifers, 2 purebred Hampshire sows, and 19 pigs. Wallace keeps production records on his dairy animals. He has filled all the offices of his club.

Joan Curtis Rutledge, Webster County, lives on a 36-acre farm and has had many achievements in her 7 years of club work covering canning, clothing, health, and room improvement. For several years she has been a member of various demonstration teams, has participated in the style revue, and been active in the health project. Each year she has put on an exhibit at the State fair. In addition to acting as chairman on many committees, she has been secretary and historian. Jean has a well-rounded record and is prominent in county-wide activities.

Gaylord Stadlman, Sac County, has a splendid 10-year record of club work in baby beef, corn, pig, health, and farm accounts. During the past 8 years he has done considerable work in cattle judging and has successfully exhibited beef calves at the State fair and been an active member of a number of demonstration teams. Gaylord is interested and active in the wildlife conservation program. He keeps a complete farm record of accounts. He now has five head of calves and a one-half interest in six sows. In addition to his club work last year he helped his father manage a 250-acre farm. He served his club as assistant leader, president, reporter, and chairman of the program committee.

K A N S A S

Martha Wreath, Riley County, believes that the results of her 10 years of club work is well worth the effort. Among her enterprises are gardening, poultry, food preparation, room improvement, clothing, sheep, and wildlife conservation. In addition to making her clothes, she has taken part in the style revue, has been a member of the judging team and, for several years, has exhibited her club work. In the long period of attendance at club meetings, only twice was she marked absent. Martha has held most of the club offices and is serving on a number of committees.

Helen Woodard, Shawnee County, became interested, 8 years ago, in canning, poultry, clothing, baking, junior leadership, and wildlife conservation. On numerous occasions she has made exhibits of her canning and clothing work, and has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams at county and State fairs. This year she is leader of her club. Helen has held all the offices in her club.

Maurice Francis, Stafford County, living on a 480-acre farm, has completed 10 years of activity in dairy and beef cattle, swine, sorghum, health, junior leadership, and wildlife conservation. Each year Maurice has exhibited cattle and swine at the State fair and has also participated in judging livestock and grains. He stood high last year in the county health contest. His interest in wildlife conservation has induced him to plant a small shelterbelt for a game shelter. He has also assisted in developing a conservation area on his farm as a recreational ground for the community. Maurice has 5 cows, a heifer, and 27 head of swine. He has occupied all the offices in his club.

Charles Hoyt, Geary County, in addition to specializing in the poultry project during his 10 years of membership, has done work in dairy, wheat, potatoes, baby beef, corn, sorghum, and junior leadership. He has participated in judging cattle and grains and has given demonstrations in gardening and poultry housing. He has exhibited poultry and crops each year and has filled offices of his club. Charles has a dairy heifer and a fine flock of Rhode Island Red chickens.

K E N T U C K Y

Dorothy Angle, Warren County, now in her eighth year of club work, has completed projects in canning, room improvement, foods, handicraft, and clothing. She serves as leader of a foods club, and on many occasions has been a member of judging and demonstration teams. Dorothy has participated in the style revue, and each year she has exhibited at State and county fairs the products of her club enterprises. She has held all the offices of her club.

John Thomas Cooper, Wayne County, has, during his 8 years of baby-beef work, fed, shown, and marketed 40 baby beeves. John and his father started a purebred herd in 1932. He has also carried tobacco and sheep projects. He is a member of the county and State livestock-judging team, and has also been active on the demonstration team. John now owns 3 registered Aberdeen Angus cows, 4 sheep, one registered Duroc sow and litter, and is a partner with his father in the ownership of 16 head of registered Aberdeen Angus cows. He has been vice president and president of his club and, during the past 2 years, president of the county club.

Willis K. Crawford, Caldwell County, has had a part in many phases of club work during his 4-H membership, including tobacco, baby beef, small fruits, corn, swine, potatoes, grapes, forestry, and quail. He has consistently exhibited livestock at the community, county, and tristate livestock shows, and, as a member of the livestock judging team, he has done good work. Willis is building up a herd of purebred beef cattle and also a herd of purebred hogs. He has been vice president and president of both his local club and the county club.

Frances Morgerson, Fayette County, has made practical use of her 7 years' experience in canning, clothing, poultry, dairy, foods, and room improvement. In addition to putting on exhibits, she has been a member of the judging team and has also given a number of public demonstrations. Frances also has participated in the style revue. She has been assistant leader for 3 years, and has filled the offices of secretary, treasurer, reporter, and president.

L O U I S I A N A

Katie Maude Hood, Claiborne Parish, has been interested in poultry, clothing, room improvement, health, farm accounts, and wildlife conservation. She makes her clothes and keeps a complete account of income and expenses which has proved most helpful. Katie has exhibited her work each year at the State fair, participated in the dress revue, been a member of the poultry judging and demonstration teams, and has given public demonstrations in caring for a girl's room. This year she has helped to train three demonstration teams. She has scored high in her health-club work. She has been secretary and treasurer of the executive council and president of her club 4 years.

James Long, E. Baton Rouge Parish, has a record of 6 years of cotton, corn, potato, pig, and beef-calf club work. He has exhibited cotton, potatoes, and calves the past 3 years, has been active in judging livestock and crops. James has helped to organize new members and has been helpful in preparing and caring for exhibits at the fairs. He has occupied the offices of vice president and president of the parish executive committee. He has 18 beef cattle, 1 sow, 4 pigs, 1 mare, and 1 mule colt. His 4-H projects are helping to pay his college expenses.

Herman S. Mayeux, Rapides Parish, has completed 7 years' activity in cotton, corn, potatoes, peas, dairy calf, health, clover, and wildlife conservation. In his exhibits he has shown cotton, and potatoes. He has been a member of the crop-judging team and has given a number of demonstrations including, the control of the Mexican boll weevil. He has filled all offices of his club and was vice president of the parish livestock association 1 year. Herman has 20 hogs, 4 dairy calves, and 28 acres of various crops.

Dorothy Sledge, Red River Parish, has made practical use of her 7 years' club experience in poultry, clothing, gardening, canning, pig, health, and baking work. She has held exhibits, been a member of the poultry-judging team and has served on three demonstration teams. Dorothy has been interested and active in the wildlife conservation project. In her yard-improvement work she set out 27 shrubs and 16 rose bushes. In addition to serving on various committees, she has been president and vice president of her club. She has 150 chickens, 1 brood sow, and 7 purebred Hampshire pigs.

M A I N E

Katheryn Morton, Waldo County, a club leader for the past 3 years, has a long list of achievements in her 9 years of club work. She has a record of canning from 200 to 300 pint jars of food each year and has made several exhibits of her canned products. Being particularly interested in first aid, she has helped other club members to learn how to care for the injured. Katheryn was quite successful in her clothing work and participated in the style revue. She has filled all the offices in her club.

Louise Plunkett, Cumberland County, has packed adventure, fun, and achievement into her 8 years as a club member. Her greatest distinction came in canning, sewing, and cooking. She did not hesitate to undertake more strenuous projects, such as potato and pig-raising. When she raised potatoes she drove the horse to plow and harrow the ground. Louise has given a number of demonstrations and also exhibited canning, baking, and clothing. She won the county canning championship as well as the State poem contest. She was president of her club for 5 years.

Norman Sawyer, Somerset County, has carried dairying throughout his 8 years of club work. In the beginning, Norman selected the Jersey calf that he "has kept in the club with me ever since." He has been awarded championship medals, several years, in judging cattle and has given demonstrations in fitting the calf for the show ring. In addition to acting as secretary and president of his club, he also has been a delegate to the State camp.

Wilmer Stevens, Oxford County, has completed during his 7-year membership in the 4-H Club, 11 projects in corn, beans, dairying, and gardening. He has won the county championship several times on each of his projects, was a member of the demonstration team 4 years, and has taken part in a number of exhibits. He has filled the offices of secretary, president, reporter, and has been chairman on numerous committees.

M A R Y L A N D

George Lechliden, Montgomery County, has been connected with club work since 1931, selecting as his projects, poultry, hogs, baby beef, sheep, and soil conservation. He has shown excellence in dairy-cattle judging, has given demonstrations. He has exhibited sheep, baby beef, and poultry at the State and county fairs. The past 2 years he has been assistant superintendent of the 4-H community fairs. George was president of his club 3 years and is now chairman on the social committee of the county council. He has 10 purebred pigs, 1 Poland China and 1 grade sow, a Hampshire boar, 2 baby beeves, and 10 wild ducks.

William Powell, Allegany County, became interested 7 years ago in gardening, poultry, and swine. These projects were used for the benefit of his family. As a member of the judging team he has coached and trained a number of teams for dairy and poultry judging contests. He has filled all the offices in his club and is now its leader, and publicity chairman of the county council.

Katherine L. Uebel, Baltimore County, has had several years' experience in canning, clothing, food and health, room improvement, nutrition, and leadership. She has been an active member of the judging team, and has done fine work in judging, baking, and clothing. Katherine takes responsibility in local and county 4-H activities, and has occupied the office of secretary, treasurer, vice president, and president, and is chairman of the committee on fair exhibits.

Jessie Guard, Garrett County,

M A S S A C H U S E T T S

Priscilla Davis, Barnstable County, during her 7 years of club experience has been interested in clothing, cooking, and home furnishing. On numerous occasions she has exhibited her club work. Priscilla led a home-furnishing club 1 year, and was also leader of a cooking club of 20 members for 2 years. She has held the office of secretary and vice president.

Oscar Gassett, Plymouth County, specialized in poultry work during his 7 years of club work. As his flock increased he built larger quarters and then started to raise his own chicks. The first 200 day-old chicks were, to Oscar, a most gratifying sight. To enlarge his poultry plant, he obtained a part-time job, and then, with a laying house and brooder house built, he felt well on his way into the poultry business. He established a retail egg route and later bought an established egg route. During the past 2 years, he has been president of the county 4-H Club, working with about 150 boys and girls 16 years of age and over.

Charles H. Bothfeld, Middlesex County, has completed 9 years of activity in gardening, poultry, handicraft, and animal husbandry. He is a member of a large family for which a good-sized garden is required to supply their needs; and Charles undertook and successfully carried out this project in addition to his other farm work. He has exhibited his garden produce and handicraft work at county and State fairs, has been assistant leader of the garden club, and is leading a handicraft club of 18 members. He assisted in organizing a poultry club, which is still active under his brother's leadership. Charles is establishing himself in the dairy business and is taking care of a herd of 37 head. He is president of his club.

Jean Brown, Hampden County, has covered a wide range of projects, including canning, gardening, dairy, poultry, handicraft, flower garden, and clothing during her 9 years of membership. In addition to exhibiting her work at the State and county fairs, she has been active in judging work and a member of several county demonstration teams. Last year she canned 600 containers of fruit and vegetables. This year she is leading a garden and a canning club. She has occupied all the offices in her club and has served as president of the community fair association.

M I C H I G A N

Einer Olstrom, Charlevoix County, has completed 5 years' activity in gardening, potatoes, health, and farm accounts, adding soil conservation and the forest-fire study project the past 2 years. He has been a consistent exhibitor at the State fairs several years, has made a good record in his health work, and has served as a member of the crops-judging team each year. Einer has been local leader of his club 3 years.

Patty Jean Sibley, Ingham County, has made practical use of her 7 years' club work. She specialized in clothing, health, cooking, and canning. She has been a member of many demonstration and judging teams, makes most of her clothes, and for several years she has exhibited clothing work at the State fairs. Patty Jean has had experience in leading 4-H Clubs, has represented her club in the style show, and has made a fine record in her health project. She has held all offices in her club.

Juanita Christenson, Newaygo County, specialized in clothing, and later added canning, health, and food preparation to her work. She has been a consistent exhibitor at the State fairs, a member of the judging and demonstration teams, has participated in the dress revue, and has scored high in her health project. Juanita has occupied all offices in her club.

Robert Clifford Heisler, Jackson County, a 4-H member for 8 years, has successfully completed a variety of projects, including, sheep, health, potato, dairy, corn, and handicraft. He has given demonstrations in sheep shearing, has been an active member of the judging team, and has exhibited each year at the State fairs. During the past 3 years he has done custom shearing. Robert was local leader of his club 2 years. He has 20 head of Shropshire sheep.

M I N N E S O T A

Arline A. E. Monson, Kandiyohi County, has been a junior leader for 3 years. She has made an outstanding home economics record and has been especially interested in baking, clothing, meal-planning, canning, dairy, health, junior-leadership, home-beautification, and wildlife-conservation projects. Arline has held an exhibit each year, been a member of the judging team, and has served on demonstration teams, and also has participated in the style revue. She has filled all offices in her club.

Ithel Schipper, Otter Tail County, has been especially successful in the dairy, sheep, poultry, and home-beautification projects, but also has carried a strong program of health work. Almost every year he has exhibited fat lambs and dairy calves. He has served as president, vice president, junior leader, and has been president of the 4-H leaders' council. Ithel's club activities have given him a concrete start in the farming business. He owns 8 purebred Guernsey cows, 2 grade Guernsey cows, 22 head of Shropshire ewes, a small orchard, and 300 white leghorns.

Edward A. Holmquist, Ramsey County, has had gardening, poultry, dairy, and judging work as his major projects during the past 8 years. He has been active in other phases of club work, including health and junior leadership. He has exhibited dairy, poultry, and garden products each year at the county fairs, is a member of the county dairy-judging team, and has been dairy superintendent at the county fairs. He has held the offices of reporter and president of his club and is now on the county 4-H federation board. He owns 2 cows and 1 heifer.

Alice Mann, Rock County, in her club work has carried baking, baby beef, canning, clothing, gardening, poultry, room improvement, and junior leadership. She has been successful also in health, music, and wildlife-conservation activities. She has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams and has exhibited baby beef during the past 6 years. She owns 2 cows, 2 heifers, 4 calves, a half interest in a Hereford sire and also a half interest in a flock of 14 Shropshire ewes.

M I S S I S S I P P I

Jimmie Dennis, Hinds County, has made practical use of her 6 years' club experience in poultry, garden, canning, foods, clothing, and home improvement. In addition to being active in judging poultry and giving 22 public and 11 team demonstrations, she has held all the offices in her club. She financed her school expenses through her poultry work. Each year she has put on an exhibit at the State fair. Last year she planted 33 fruit trees, set out 500 strawberry plants, had complete charge of a very large garden, the poultry, and the family canning, all of which work became her responsibility because of death in her family.

Marion Manning, Hinds County, is interested in cotton, corn, sweet-potato, soybean, fat steer, and dairy projects. During his 8 years' membership he has put on 47 exhibits at county, State, and national fairs, given demonstrations in terracing and soil conservation, helped to train judging and demonstration teams, and also given many public talks on club work. In the capacity of local leader he has enrolled 55 members, and has served in each office of his club. Marion has 3 baby-beef steers, 1 dairy calf, and a mule colt.

Helen Allen, Warren County, has had a part in many phases of 4-H Club work during her 7 years' membership - in canning, garden, home improvement, foods, poultry, and clothing. Each year she has exhibited at county, State, interstate, and national fairs and has given many demonstrations in baking. Her room-improvement work has included refinishing and painting all the furniture in her room. Helen has been active in community affairs and has held the office of secretary, project captain, and president.

Stuart Denman, Tallahatchie County, has 7 years of club work to his credit, specializing in cotton, corn, pig, and dairy work. He has rendered creditable service on many committees. He has been outstanding in his livestock judging work, and has assisted with programs in community activities. Stuart has put on 20 exhibits, given 8 public demonstrations. He has enrolled 48 new members, and assisted them with their record books. He has occupied the offices of local leader, reporter, vice president, and president. He has 17 head of hogs, 5 Jerseys, 2 mules, 1 baby beef steer, and 80 acres of land.

M I S S O U R I

Bernice Hitzemann, Carroll County, has been a club member since 1935 and has carried on club work in foods and clothing in addition to aiding a younger sister in keeping house for her father. Bernice has been an active member of the judging and demonstrations teams and has filled the offices of secretary and president.

Mary L. Johnston, Jasper County, has had 6 years' experience in dairy and clothing work. She has exhibited both these projects many times at the fairs and has been a member of the judging team. Mary has held all the offices in her club.

Dwight M. Brassfield, Grundy County, has been a member of ewe and lamb, colt, and kafir clubs, and as president of the latter was instrumental in the club's disposing of 80,000 pounds of certified seed. He has been a successful exhibitor of his livestock for a number of years, an active member of the livestock-judging team, and has given demonstrations in blocking and fitting lambs. He has occupied the offices of secretary, treasurer, reporter, and president. Dwight owns 25 head of registered Shropshire sheep, one Duroc sow, and 2 purebred milking Shorthorn cows.

Howard Broemmelsick, St. Louis County, was interested in strawberries, muskmelons, and in health. He has been a member of several demonstration teams and has done outstanding work on the judging teams. Howard has put on exhibits a number of times during his 9 years' membership. He has filled all the offices of his club.

M O N T A N A

Otto Benson, Missoula County, started in club work 8 years ago, specializing in dairying, which he has carried throughout his membership. He has exhibited cattle each year at the State fair, has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams and now owns 2 cows and 1 calf. He has held all the offices in his club.

Mable Cramer, Lewis and Clark County, has had many fine achievements during the past 10 years, in handicraft, food preservation, clothing, and turkey projects. She has exhibited turkeys, canned food, and clothing, organized and led a boys' camp cookery club, and has given demonstrations on control of turkey parasites. Mable did all her household canning, and also canned for 11 other families. During the past 2 years she has assisted in leading a clothing club and a food-preservation club, and has trained two demonstration teams. She has held every club office.

Stanley Howard, Richland County, became interested 9 years ago in corn, pork, baby beef, farm records, pigs, and beets. He has put on a total of 45 exhibits, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams for several years, and given demonstrations in selection and storage of seed corn. He has encouraged club members to use the best grade of adapted standard seed they could buy. He has held all the offices in his club.

Lois Huffman, Cascade County, living on a 1,040-acre farm, has been interested in clothing, room improvement, garden, and foods. She has exhibited her club work at the State fair, judged clothing, represented her club at the State style show, and given demonstrations in the washing of fine fabrics. Lois has been recreation leader, local leader, reporter, and vice president.

N E B R A S K A

Clyde Althouse, Cass County, does not believe in putting all your eggs in one basket. Since 1928 he has fed baby beeves, raised turkeys, has kept farm records on his father's 515-acre farm, also has raised hogs, sheep, and corn. During his club membership he has fed 24 baby beeves, raised 1,575 turkeys to maturity, and has earned 34 achievement certificates. Clyde has a start in the purebred Hereford business and a flock of breeding turkeys. He has been a consistent and successful exhibitor, and has held the various offices in his club.

Winona Francke, Lancaster County, has been in club work 8 years during which period she has done some outstanding work. Her 4-H training has stood her in good stead, since she has complete charge of the home during the summer months. She has been enrolled in canning, cooking, leadership, poultry, room improvement, and clothing clubs. Winona has canned 2,212 pints of all kinds of products and has baked 297 loaves of bread. She took part in three dress revues, and has held all the offices in her club.

Margaret Miller, Cheyenne County, a leader in her western Nebraska community, has been in club work 11 years, with a total of 19 projects. Living on a 1,760-acre farm, Margaret has been interested in gardening, canning, clothing, room improvement, hot lunches, and cooking. She has been active in the judging and demonstration teams, has represented her club in the dress revues, and has put on exhibits at the fairs. She has held every office in her club.

Harold Stevens, Perkins County, is another delegate who has diversified his efforts. He joined a 4-H pig club in 1932 and has carried on his swine work each year since, and now has 16 purebred Duroc sows and pigs as a part of his herd. In addition he has 12 head of cattle, 4 horses, and 8 sheep. Harold has also been interested in corn sorghum, sheep, and baby beef. He has put on exhibits and been active on the livestock-judging team. He has held every office in his club.

N E W   H A M P S H I R E

Everett W. Seavey, Rockingham County, has had 8 years' experience in gardening, forestry, and leadership. He has put on exhibits at the fairs and has been an active member of the demonstration team. He is now leader of his club and has held all the offices.

Stanley W. Miller, Sullivan County, has been a club member for 8 years and completed 20 divisions of project work, including forestry, garden, health, farm shop, potatoes, handicraft, and leadership. He has been leader of a local 4-H boys' club. Stanley is managing the farm under the direction of his father who is permanently confined to his bed. He has been local leader, reporter, and president of his club.

Mary Anna Allen, Grafton County, is now finishing her ninth year as a club member. She is recreational, social, and educational chairman of the County Youth Extension Club, and also assists her mother, who is leader of a girls' clothing club. Her major interests have been foods, clothing, and leadership. Mary has been an active member of the judging and demonstration teams and has also put on a number of exhibits. She has been vice president, president, and local leader the last 3 years.

Olive G. Gleason, Cheshire County, has made practical use of her 8 years' club experience in clothing, canning, food, and leadership. As a member of the canning team she has given public demonstrations. Olive took part in the dress revue the past 3 years, and last year she designed and made the basketball uniforms for the high school girls' team. She has held all the offices in her club.

N E W J E R S E Y

Mary Henninger, Bergen County, has been active in the past 4 years in 4-H Club work. Three of these years she was an assistant club leader and also held the presidency continuously. Mary participated in the following projects - clothing, handicraft, good grooming. She led her club in making cookies and scrapbooks for the County Hospital, and was chairman of the committee which planned a balanced supper for the mothers of the club members. She participated in the fashion show presented for the mothers and also entered candy in the exhibit at the Trenton Fair. At present she is chairman of the sports committee. She was chairman of the Annual 4-H Convention held in Hackensack last month.

Austin L. Moody, Jr., Salem County, began club work 6 years ago with poultry, and later added corn, swine, and heifer calf. During this time he has exhibited all these enterprises at State fairs, and participated in poultry judging work. Austin has a heifer cow, brood sow, one gilt, and 440 chickens. He has served as secretary and vice president of his club.

Peter Staats, Somerset County, has specialized in poultry throughout his 8 years' membership in the 4-H Club. He has shown excellence in poultry judging, has given demonstrations in poultry grading, and has exhibited at the State fairs during the past 6 years. Peter has always kept complete records of his work. He now owns 1,000 hens, 2 poultry houses, 4 brooder houses, 1 range shelter, 5 oil burners and, with his father, a half interest in a new egg room. He has filled the office of secretary, treasurer, and president.

Boulah Stanton, Camden County, has found that traveling through 4-H has been a great adventure. During her 4 years' membership she has been interested in cooking, clothing, and baking. Boulah makes all her clothes. She organized a 4-H Club and has been its leader during the past 2 years. She has served her club in the capacity of secretary, vice president, and president.

NEW MEXICO

Vivian Hadley, Roosevelt County, started her 4-H Club work 5 years ago when she signed up for the clothing project, and she still carries the same line of work in addition to baking, home improvement, and foods. Vivian has put on exhibits, been an active member of the demonstration team, and has taken part in the dress revue the past 3 years.

De Arman Harris, Lea County, living on a 3,624-acre ranch, has 8 years' club work to his credit, including leadership, poultry, sheep, beef-calf, beans, corn, grain, and farm accounts. He has exhibited sheep at the county fairs many times, and has been assistant leader, secretary, vice president, and president of his club. De Arman has three registered ewes and three registered lambs.

Phyllis Marshall, Chaves County, now in her seventh year of club work, has completed projects in clothing, foods, poultry, canning, junior leadership, beef-calf, and home management. As a member of the demonstration team she has given demonstrations in the preparation and serving of breakfast. She represented her club in the county dress revue and has put on exhibits in canning, foods, and clothing. The offices of reporter, vice president, and president have been filled by Phyllis.

Marcel Mortenson, Hidalgo County, has completed 8 years' activity in dairy cow, beef-calf, pig, and farm records. Each year he puts on a livestock exhibit and takes an active part in both the judging and demonstration teams. Marcel has been local leader, president, and secretary of his club. He has six head of dairy animals.

N E W   Y O R K

George William Niles, Oneida County, began club work 9 years ago with poultry, gardening, dairy calf, and forestry. He has taken part many times in the judging activities at the State and county fairs, was a consistent exhibitor, and has put on demonstrations in how to select a good dairy cow. George conducted experiments in raising watermelons and muskmelons under plant protectors in cooperation with the New York State College of Agriculture. In connection with his forestry work he has planted 2,000 trees. He has introduced the Aberdeen-Angus cattle in his community. In addition to filling all the offices in his club he has organized two 4-H Clubs. George has 250 hens and a purebred heifer.

Betty Sweetland, Cortland County, has been a club member for 5 years. Her chief interests were clothing, canning, room improvement, baking, and record book. She has served as president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and news reporter. This year she is assistant leader of a club of 20 girls. She has made exhibits at State and county fairs and has been instructor at a county camp.

Fern Hardy, Jefferson County, has been a club member for 7 years and has held the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and song leader. She has exhibited at State and county fairs and has taken part in the State dress revue. Fern has spoken on 4-H Club work before a number of organizations. Her main club interests were related to school lunches, home-grown vegetable displays, new ways of using milk, refreshments, outdoor cookery, canning, sewing, dressmaking, and room improvement.

J. Homer Martin, St. Lawrence County, living on a 110-acre farm, has had 10 years of experience in gardening, dairy, colt, raspberries, farm accounting, forestry, and the farm shop course. He has been active in judging poultry and dairy cattle, has put on exhibits at the State fairs, given demonstrations in building a bull pen and has taught the club boys rope work and halter making. Homer helped to organize a 4-H Club, planted 1,000 Red Pine trees, and in his conservation work has hatched pheasants the past 2 years. He has held all the offices in his club. He has 20 purebred Holsteins, one colt.

N O R T H   C A R O L I N A

Walton Thompson, Wilson County, living on a 400-acre farm, has been interested in pigs, poultry, corn, health, garden, and tobacco the past 4 years. Each year he has put on an exhibit at the county fair, given public demonstrations, and has trained 4-H judging teams. Walton has been president of his club 3 years. He owns 4 pigs, 300 chickens, and several acres of crops.

Margaret Ellen Wagoner, Guilford County, joined a 4-H Club 6 years ago. She has given her attention to clothing, room improvement, poultry, foods, calf, and wildlife conservation. She represented her club 2 years at the dress revue, exhibited refinished furniture, and has given a number of public demonstrations. She has been secretary and president of her club.

Luther Paul Canup, Rowan County, is in his fifth year of club work, having been interested in cotton, calf, colts, peanuts, and home beautification. He is a member of the county seed-judging team, and has exhibited cotton, calf, and corn each year. In addition to being president and vice president of his club, he has been chairman on numerous committees. He owns two purebred cows and two colts.

Virginia Egerton, Polk County, has done good work in clothing, room improvement, yard improvement, foods, and wildlife conservation, and has taken part in the 1936 dress revue. She has been secretary, vice president, and president of her club.

N O R T H   D A K O T A

Richard Crockett, Cavalier County, in addition to specializing in baby beef, has carried poultry, small grains, sheep, swine, and farm accounts during his 9 years' club work. He has been a consistent exhibitor of small grains and baby beef at the State fairs and has been a member of both the judging and demonstration teams, giving demonstrations in showmanship, halter making, and sheep blocking. Each office in the club has been held by Richard. He has 16 sheep and a Chester White gilt.

Azalia Hammond, Golden Valley, living on a 320-acre farm, has had 8 years' experience in clothing, canning, preparing meals, and wildlife conservation. She makes most of her own clothing and helps with the home canning. For several years she has put on exhibits at the State fairs, been a member of the judging team, and has given demonstrations in posture, fitting a pattern, and serving a meal. In her conservation work she tried to protect the wild fowl by building shelter corners for them. She has been secretary and president of her club, and is now State president of the 4-H institute.

Gordon L. Potter, Barnes County, first undertook swine raising and later added livestock, poultry, orchard, crops, farm and home improvement. Gordon has done good work on the livestock-judging team, and has given many public demonstrations. During the past 3 years he has kept records on their 640-acre farm. Gordon planted a shelterbelt for wildlife conservation, and in his farm-beautification project he helped to plant 215 trees. He cleans and prunes the orchard every summer, and each year he has had an exhibit. In 9 years he has never missed a meeting. He has been secretary, reporter, and president of his club. He owns 8 gilts, 5 market barrows, 58 hens, and has an orchard of 25 plum and 6 apple trees.

Margaret Jane Root, Grand Forks County, started in club work 7 years ago, and has completed projects in canning, gardening, clothing, handicraft, and food preparation. During this time she has entered many demonstrations, been active in the county and State style revues, and helped to plan the programs for county and State events. Margaret makes most of her own clothes and has exhibited her club work each year. The past 2 years she has been local leader of her club, in addition to having filled the office of librarian, treasurer, secretary, and president.

O H I O

Melvin H. Kolbe, Lorain County, has been interested in flower and vegetable gardening, bees, and farm mapping during his club membership. He has been assistant local leader 3 years and president 2 years. Melvin has been a member of the local and county demonstration teams.

Maxine Mills, Montgomery County, completed 8 years' activity in clothing and in flower gardening. She has represented her club in the county and State dress revues, has been a member of the demonstration team, and has given many local demonstrations. Maxine has filled the offices of recreation leader, reporter, vice president, and president.

Robert F. Riegel, Darke County, became interested 9 years ago in steer feeding, pigs, dairy calf, and beef calf. He has been a consistent exhibitor at the stock shows and a member of the livestock-judging team. He has filled all the offices in his club and is now a member of the advisory council and president of the county senior group.

Kathryn Ann Vulgamore, Pike County, has specialized in clothing throughout her 8 years' experience as a club member. She has exhibited her clothing work at the State fairs, has represented her club in the style revue, and has been a member of two county demonstration teams. Kathryn has held the offices of secretary, reporter, recreation leader, and president.

O K L A H O M A

Bobby Gist, Seminole County, started in club work 7 years ago, specializing in poultry. He still carries the same line of work in addition to small grains, peanuts, calves, pigs, and corn. He has exhibited his club projects each year and also has been a member of the county livestock-judging team and active in helping young club members to select good livestock. He has been assistant coach and president of his club 5 years. Bobby is now in the registered hog business. He has been interested in community affairs and has taken part in the leadership activities of his club.

Bonnie Phillips, Major County, living on a 4,500-acre cattle ranch, has built a 4-H leadership record selected as the most outstanding in the Nation - the 1938 Moses trophy winner. She has covered a wide range of club projects, including clothing, home-improvement, food-preparation, canning, gardening, health, poultry, and beef-calf. She has put on many exhibits at the State fairs, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and has helped 20 delegates from her county through the events at the State round-up. She has taken part also in a number of style revues. Bonnie has held every office in her club.

Maudine Plew, Jackson County, a State champion achievement girl, has made practical use of her 9 years' club experience in clothing, gardening, canning, foods, poultry, health, dairy, and room improvement. Through her room-improvement work she has improved her entire home. She has put on 30 exhibits, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, taken part in the dress revues, and conducted the county clothing-judging school last year, and has helped her neighbors with their canning. During the past 4 years, Maudine has trained in team-demonstration work younger girls and two younger brothers who are club members. She has been secretary, project captain, and also secretary of the Southwest District 4-H Federation.

Harry Synar, Muskogee County, has a club career filled with successes at district, State, and national 4-H Club events, including the winning of a college scholarship. He carried a variety of projects - cotton, corn, swine, small-grains, wildlife-conservation, bees, beef, poultry, farm accounts, and poultry. He has been a member of the judging teams for livestock, poultry, crops, meat, and horticulture and has taken part in numerous demonstrations. Harry has put on exhibits at the State, interstate and national exhibits, given talks on club work; and, being interested in community affairs, has taken part in many programs. The farm-account record which he kept for his father on the entire farm, 360 acres, won the State prize. He has been project captain, vice president, president, and chairman on many committees.

O R E G O N

Marjorie Jensen, Lane County, has had many fine achievements in canning, cooking, room improvement, health, clothing, flowers, and marketing during her 5 years membership in the 4-H Club. At the State fair each year she has put on exhibits of canning, clothing, and room improvement, and has done outstanding work as a member of three demonstration teams in addition to her judging activities. Marjorie has represented her club several times in the dress revue. She was secretary of her club 4 years, also vice president and president.

Helen Margaret Michael, Lane County, has covered, during her 10-year club experience, a wide range of projects including clothing, canning, cooking, health, flowers, camp cookery room improvement, rabbits, marketing, calf, pig, poultry, handicraft, home beautification, and news writing. Having one of the most outstanding leadership records in the Nation in 1937, she won the Moses Trophy. Helen has put on a total of 210 exhibits at county, State, and National events, has been a member of four demonstration teams and of a judging team. She has represented her club in six health contests and in several dress revues. Helen has written several plays and taken part in 20 plays and operettas during the last 5 years. She has been secretary, vice president, president, and song leader of her club.

P E N N S Y L V A N I A

Dorothy Boring, Huntingdon County, has been a 4-H Club member for 9 years. She has taken part in clothing, room improvement, baking, gardening, flower garden, and sheep feeding work. She has been an officer in several clubs, assisted with the county camp, was active in judging work, and has been an exhibitor at the State farm show. She has appeared before numerous public groups to explain 4-H Club work. Dorothy makes her own clothes and has helped others to make theirs. She has learned the value of keeping records. She has filled the offices of secretary, vice president, reporter, and president.

Thomas McKee, Clearfield County, first enrolled as a 4-H Club member in 1928. He has been interested in the potato, strawberry, corn, cabbage, and calf clubs. Thomas has been a leader in club activities in his community since 1936, and has assisted his local leader in reorganizing and carrying on various projects. He is a member of the livestock-judging team, and for a number of years has put on an exhibit at the State farm show. He has been vice president and president of his club.

Dean Reiss, Lehigh County, became interested in 4-H Club work 7 years ago. Starting with gardening, he later added lambs, swine, and baby beef work. He has been a member of the livestock and also the vegetable-judging team. Dean has successfully exhibited his various club enterprises at the State farm show during the past 5 years. He has been president and treasurer of his club.

Annabell Wetzel, Northumberland County, first enrolled as a 4-H Club member in 1932, and has since taken part in room improvement, clothing, foods, and health projects, serving in several official capacities and assisting with the leadership of the club. She has gradually assumed the responsibility of leader for her local club. Annabell has been a member of the judging teams, and has exhibited her club work several years.

P U E R T O   R I C O

Carmen Luisa Cruz, Puerto Rico, has made practical use of her 3 years' club experience in gardening, canning, sewing, room improvement, and yard beautification. She makes her own clothes, sews for other members of her family, and also earns money by sewing for others. Carmen has exhibited her club work and has been helpful in interesting other young people in 4-H Club activities. Her yard has become a demonstration in good arrangement and in the selection and care of plants. She has been secretary of her club and also president 2 years.

Obdulio Melendez Mena, Vega Baja, has learned many useful things since joining the 4-H Club 3 years ago. His chief interests are sugar-cane, tobacco, swine, and plantain, all of which he has exhibited at the fairs. An active member of the judging and demonstration teams, he has given demonstrations in plantain seed selection at the fairs and has learned how to judge dairy cows. He has made many tours to compare the agricultural practices on the Island, including terracing of hillsides. Money earned through his club activities has helped to defray college expenses. He has occupied the offices of vice president and president of his club. He has four head of Hampshire swine and a flock of chickens.

R H O D E I S L A N D

Josephine Burke, Bristol County, is in her eighth year of club work, having divided her time among clothing, foods, and leadership. Products of her sewing have been exhibited, and some of her baking. Josephine has given demonstrations in clothing and foods work, taken an active part in the style revue, kept complete records of her work, and shown fine leadership ability in connection with her club. She has held the office of assistant secretary, secretary, and president.

George M. Copeland, Newport County, is completing his seventh year in club work, having carried projects in poultry, gardening, and farm accounts. He has made some rather outstanding records in his poultry work. He has exhibited both poultry and eggs, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, and has given public demonstrations in keeping farm accounts. George has assisted in the leadership work of his club. At present he has a fine flock of 550 chickens. He has been treasurer and vice president of his club.

Thomas H. Sandham, Jr., Newport County, became interested in poultry and handicraft work 6 years ago. He has been successful with his poultry, has been a member of the judging team, and has given demonstrations in model poultry house, and model equipment, and also has exhibited poultry and eggs each year. He helped other club members to start their projects. He has 45 laying hens and 160 chicks. He has been president of his club, and is a member of the County Council.

Eleanor Warren, Kent County, has learned many useful things since enrolling in room improvement, clothing, foods, garden, health, and handicraft 10 years ago. During her membership on the judging and demonstration teams, she has given public demonstrations in practically all of her club enterprises, participated in a number of style revues, and exhibited her clothing-club work. One complete costume was sent to the Eastern States Exposition. Eleanor has a well-rounded record in demonstrating, exhibiting, and organizing work. She has filled the office of treasurer, secretary, and president of her club.

S O U T H   C A R O L I N A

Wallace Bull, Orangeburg County, has been a 4-H Club member since her tenth year, and after completing all club projects she has served her club as local leader. Each year she has entered some club contest. She has represented her club in the State dress revue.

Vergil Corley, Saluda County, a 4-H member since 1930, has been interested in dairy calf, corn, hay, swine, oats, barley, and cotton. He has shown his projects at the county and State fairs, and has participated in the national dairy-demonstration team. He has been president of his club 5 years, vice president and secretary 2 years. He also has acted as assistant and local leader.

John Finch, Spartanburg County, has done fine work in projects such as cotton, corn, hogs, poultry, and dairy cattle since he entered club work in 1931, his major interest being dairy cattle. John has built up a herd of 14 registered Jerseys. He has successfully exhibited his live-stock at the county fairs and has served in all the offices of his club.

Virginia Watson, Abbeville County, now local leader for 15 young 4-H girls, has had 5 years as a club member, with projects in foods, clothing, home management, and home furnishings, and with contests in health, record achievement, and leadership. She is now president of the county council.

S O U T H   D A K O T A

Eleanor Isack, Brookings County, is interested in wildlife conservation work, clothing, and foods. During her 8 years' membership in the 4-H Club she has exhibited canning, baking, and clothing, has taken part in the dress revues, been a member of the judging team and has given demonstrations. The offices of president, secretary, and reporter have been filled by Eleanor.

Robert Jenneman, McCook County, has specialized in poultry during the past 4 years. He has put on many exhibits at the State fairs, and been active on the judging and demonstration teams. He is also interested in wildlife conservation work. Robert has 400 buff Minorca chickens. He has been assistant leader, report, and president.

Alan Oviatt, Beadle County, has specialized in dairy cattle during the past 10 years. The past 2 years he has taken up wildlife-conservation work. He has exhibited livestock at the county and State fairs each year, and has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams. Alan has 9 head of purebred Holstein cows and heifers.

Nona Marie Plattner, Bon Homme County, has had 7 years' experience in clothing, foods, fat lambs, gardening, and farm accounts. She has put on exhibits, taken part in the dress revues, and in addition has been a member of and has coached demonstration teams the past 3 years. Nona organized a bird club of 25 members. She has held all the offices in her club.

T E N N E S S E E

Ruth Brennan, Anderson County, has had a part in nearly every phase of 4-H Club work during her 7 years' membership - in canning, clothing, gardening, room improvement, calf, turkey, foods, and handicraft. She makes all her clothes as well as some for the family, has represented her club in three style revues, does the family canning by a planned budget, and often takes over the management of the house and plans the meals for several days. Her handicraft work, made from native material, sold readily, and she taught the work to others. Ruth has put on some fine exhibits at the State fair and has held the offices of local leader, secretary, and vice president.

Virginia Lee Farmer, Bledsoe County, has been interested in poultry, health, handicraft, gardening, bees, landscaping, food preservation, clothing, and room improvement. She makes all her clothes and has learned to select and prepare a well-balanced meal. She financed her clothing budget by selling poultry. In her room-improvement work, she made over and refinished the furniture in her room. Virginia has put on exhibits at the State and interstate fairs, assisted younger members with their club work and, in addition to being chairman on many committees, has held the offices of reporter, secretary, and president.

James Dudley Perry, McNairy County, has done especially good work in cotton, corn, potatoes, poultry, fat hogs, and beef cattlo, during his 5 years' membership in a 4-H Club. He has been local leader of his club the past 3 years and has also been a member of the livestock and crop judging teams and did very fine work on both teams. James has been helpful with the club organization and community events, and has been president of his club 5 years. He has 2 mules, 2 calf, and 3 hogs.

Pershing Wright, Rhea County, has done outstanding work in crop projects for the past 5 years, including corn, potato, peanut, strawberry, dairy calf, and bees. He has exhibited at the county fairs, been a member of the livestock and crop judging teams. During the past 2 years, he has assisted in organizing his club and helping other boys to select exhibits for the fairs and encouraging them to complete their projects. He served as local leader 3 years, and is now vice president of the county 4-H Club organization. Pershing has 5 stands of bees, 1 cow, 1 sow, and 2 acres of strawberries.

T E X A S

Fay Croslin, Lamar County, in her 5 years of club work has made many improvements in her home. She has been interested in canning, room improvement, gardening, clothing, farm fruit plot, and yard improvement. She has put on exhibits, been a member of the judging team, taken part in the style shows, given demonstrations in canning, sewing, and other club work. Last year in addition to canning 487 containers of fruit and vegetables, Fay set out 157 shrubs and trees and 80 berry vines. She refinished the furniture and painted the woodwork and floor of her room. Her garden contains 25 different vegetables. She has filled the office of secretary, vice president, chairman of the exhibits committee for the district fair in 1938, and secretary of the county 4-H Club organization.

Joe L. Doyle, Lubbock County, started his first club experience with the production of 5 acres of milo maize, about 8 years ago. Since then he has added beef cattle, poultry, swine, cotton, and hogari to his list of activities. Joe has consistently exhibited his various crops each year and been active on the judging and demonstration teams. He has served as reporter, secretary, treasurer, president, and vice president, as well as assistant leader.

Katherine Shaw, Parker County, has done much to make farm living better and more comfortable during her 6 years of club experience. She has made excellent records in gardening, room improvement, poultry, farm fruit plot, and farm accounts. Katherine has charge of the chickens, and helps to milk and care for a 20-cow dairy herd. She also has charge of the family garden, helped to can 1,037 containers of food, set out 100 peach trees. She designs and makes nearly all her own clothes, and has participated in the style shows. She has been active on the demonstration team and has exhibited canned chicken at the State Fair among other things. She has filled the club offices.

Willie Lee Ulich, Burleson County, has a record of 5 years of corn, swine, dairy calf, cotton, baby chicks, and sorghum club work. During this time he has exhibited swine, poultry, cotton, and dairy calves at the county fairs, been a member of the classing, plant propagation, and dairy demonstration teams. His work with the swine project has been outstanding, and he has participated in many judging contests. Willie has developed a fine flock of 425 hens. He now has a registered Hereford calf, Jersey calf, 22 swine, 425 hens, and the sheds necessary to house the various animals and poultry. He has served as president of his local club, the county-wide 4-H Club and the Burleson County Hog Association.

V E R M O N T

Leland Beebe, Bennington County, joined a 4-H Club 9 years ago and became interested in forestry, poultry, gardening, dairy, junior leadership, and farm accounts. As a member of the judging and demonstration teams he did very good work. He helped to organize the older young people's group and, as a junior leader, has done more than the average amount of work. He has been treasurer and president of his club and also assistant junior leader in the past 3 years.

Ralph Perry, Rutland County, has specialized in gardening and dairy work during his 10 years' membership in the 4-H Club. He has exhibited several of his Guernseys nearly every year at the State fair and has been an active member of the livestock-judging and demonstration teams. In 1937 he trained a demonstration team for Camp Vail. Since the death of his father in 1936, Ralph has managed the home farm and has completed excellent farm account records. He has filled all the offices in his club.

Ada Selleck, Rutland County, has had many fine achievements in her 9 years' club work, including dairy, clothing, and foods. As a member of the judging and demonstration team each year, she has rendered fine service and has also exhibited canning, baking, and clothing. She has had charge of the foods department at the State fair and has rendered the agent assistance whenever possible. Ada has occupied all offices of her club.

Wilma Schaefer, Washington County, a club member of 9 years' standing, has participated in clothing, food, and room-improvement projects. Her club career has included food judging and some splendid work on the demonstration team, as well as exhibits at the State and interstate fairs. She has held all offices of her club and is now recreation leader.

V I R G I N I A

Pauline Hudson, Amherst County, has had many fine achievements during the past 5 years in canning, room improvement, clothing, foods, and nutrition. As a member of the judging and demonstration team, she has given demonstrations in parliamentary procedure, correct posture, canning, and clothing work. Pauline does most of the home canning and also keeps the farm records. She has served in all the offices in her club.

Ann Valentine, Brunswick County, has learned many useful things since joining the 4-H Club in 1933. Her chief interests have been cooking, meal planning, clothing, canning, room improvement, health, and farm accounts. Ann makes all her clothes, has given demonstrations in foods and clothing, been an active member of the judging team, put on exhibits at the State and county fairs, and through her poultry work has supplied her family with chickens the year around. When necessary she has taken charge of the home and cooking. She has held every office in her club.

Alvin Anthony, Patrick County, living on a 150-acre farm, has been interested in gardening, calf, sheep, pigs, poultry, and farm accounts the past 8 years. He has exhibited his projects each year at the State and county fairs, been a member of a number of demonstration and judging teams, being particularly interested in the dairy teams. Alvin has been successful in interesting young people in club work, and very willingly assisted them in getting started. He has been chairman of the membership committee, song leader, and reported. He has a calf, one sow, and a half interest in the crops and hogs on the farm.

John Calvin Reynolds, Shenandoah County, is in his eighth year of club experience, carrying crops, poultry, swine, fat lambs, and farm accounts. He has been a member of the livestock and judging teams for several years and has put on a total of 145 exhibits in poultry, lambs, swine, and potatoes at county, State, and interstate fairs. His poultry work has enabled him to meet some of his high-school expenses. The past 2 years he has been superintendent of the sheep department at the county fair. He has filled the offices of treasurer, vice president, and president. He has a flock of purebred Hampshire sheep, 9 head of swint, 300 baby chicks, and a half interest with his father in 2 purebred heifers.

W A S H I N G T O N

Betty Jean Graham, Whitman County, has made practical use of her 8 years' club experience in poultry, sheep, clothing, room improvement, baking, garden, and personal accounts. Each year she has put on an exhibit of several of her club enterprises, participated in judging work at various events, and has given a demonstration in "Canning Sausage in Tin." During the past 6 years she has made most of her own clothes, and taken part in the style revue. Although baking and meal planning are her major interests, she has refinished several pieces of furniture in her home. Betty has been leader of both a clothing and a room-improvement club. She wrote a short 4-H play entitled "Converting Pa," which has been given a number of times. She has served as secretary and president of her club.

Wilton Heinemann, Adams County, became interested 9 years ago in dairy, garden, poultry, swine, health, and farm accounts. He did fine work in livestock judging, and as a member of the demonstration team he gave demonstrations in "Pig Feeding Rations," "Rope Halter Making," and "How to Fit and Show a Steer." Wilton has exhibited his stock each year. He now has 1 dairy cow, 8 beef animals, and 26 hogs. He served as leader of both the swine and the baby-beef clubs. Wilton is now leader of the State local leaders' association.

Glenn Lorang, Thurston County, has been active in club work for 6 years, specializing in poultry and gardening. He has been outstanding in his judging and demonstration work and has exhibited poultry, eggs, and garden produce consistently each year. He now has 300 chickens and an acre garden plot. Glenn prepared 6 acres of underbrush for the conservation of game birds. He has filled all the offices of his club, and at the present time he is president of the County Harvest Festival Board.

Maxine Lynch, Kittitas County, has had 8 years' experience in clothing, canning, meal preparation, room improvement, and farm accounts. Each year she has exhibited her club work and has been a member of the judging and demonstration teams. She made a complete outfit to enter the county fair style revue. Last year she organized and led a clothing club and trained the girls for judging contests. Maxine also has been active in the health contest work. Having filled all the offices in her club, she is at present secretary of the county leaders' council.

W E S T V I R G I N I A

Helen Eakin, Nicholas County, living on a 230-acre farm, has been interested, since 1929, in canning, meal planning, sheep, and clothing. She has held every office in her club, has exhibited her club work each year, been an active member of both the judging and demonstration teams, and has been most helpful in community activities. Helen has a flock of 12 sheep.

Aves Holpp, Calhoun County, started in club work 6 years ago. Specializing in potatoes and poultry, he added handicraft, health, and pig projects later. He has been a member of the poultry judging team, put on exhibits at the county fair, and has given demonstrations in cutting seed potatoes, and making seed-corn tester. Last year he was assistant local leader of his club, and has been president 3 years.

Mary Jane Nichols, Ohio County, is finishing her ninth year in club work, during which time she has had experience in canning, clothing, room improvement, and nature study. She has exhibited canning and clothing work, been a member of the judging and demonstration teams, has given a number of public demonstrations, and has represented her club in the dress revues on a number of occasions. She has served her club as treasurer, secretary, vice president, and president. At present she is a member of several committees.

Bill Scott, Summers County, specialized in gardening the past 5 years, and added to this, the past few years, flowers, health, and handicraft work. Each year he has exhibited his garden products, been a member of the demonstration team, and entered the health contest. In addition to being local leader 2 years, he has occupied the offices of treasurer, secretary, vice president, and reporter.

W I S C O N S I N

Stanley A. Huber, Adams County, living on a 457-acre farm, has made an outstanding record in his club work, which included sheep, swine, baby-beef, dairy, colt, orchard, and leadership. He has exhibited dairy cows and baby beeves many times at the State fairs, and has been a member of the dairy-cattle judging team. In his wildlife-conservation work he introduced raising pheasants in his community. He has been local leader, secretary, reporter, and president of his club. Stanley has 7 head of purebred shorthorn cows, 8 head of Shropshire sheep, and 2 purebred Percheron horses.

Erma Helen Ritland, Chippewa County, selected dairying, which she has carried through her 10 years of membership, and to which she has added clothing, baking, leadership, lamb, farm accounts, and wildlife conservation. She has put on exhibits, given demonstrations, and been active in judging work. During the past 3 years she has been assistant superintendent of the 4-H foods department at the local fairs. In addition to having held every office in her club, Erma has been secretary and treasurer of the County Leader Association.

Ethel Buckley, Adams County, has covered a wide range of projects, including canning, clothing, poultry, dairy, leadership, baking, gardening, home furnishings, and baby beef. As a member of the judging and demonstration teams, Ethel has given a number of public demonstrations. In her wildlife-conservation program she has raised pheasants. She has served in all the offices of her club. Ethel has 4 head of Guernsey cattle and 65 hens.

Robert Helm, LaFayette County, has had many fine achievements in his club work, covering sheep, garden, colt, leadership, orchard, home beautification, handicraft, and farm wiring. During the past 7 years he has exhibited livestock, served on the judging team, and has given a number of demonstrations including farm wiring, and handicraft work. Last year he erected and was in charge of the county 4-H booth at the State fair, and has been superintendent of the handicraft exhibit the past 5 years. Robert planted a number of fruit trees in order to enlarge his orchard. He has held all the offices in his club and is now club leader.

W Y O M I N G

Wesley Hyatt, Big Horn County, considers his 8 years in club work a most interesting experience. He specialized in dairy and forestry. His work, as a member of the livestock judging team he believes, has been valuable to him on the ranch. In addition to giving a number of public demonstrations on forestry work, he has shown considerable interest in his club organization and has been outstanding in community activities. Wesley has hold an office in the local club every year.

Barbara Schwab, Big Horn County, selected garden, clothing, and cooking when she joined the 4-H Club 6 years ago. She has consistently exhibited her club enterprises, been a member of both judging and demonstration teams, and has helped the younger girls with their club problems and organization. Barbara has trained 10 demonstration teams as well as several judging teams. She has participated in and carried out community and county events. She has filled the offices of reporter, secretary, vice president, and president.

Sarah Bagley, Lincoln County, has had many fine achievements in her 8 years of club work, completing eleven projects in clothing, foods, and home management. Her clothing and foods work have been exhibited many times at style shows and county fairs. Sarah has participated in the work of the State and the county judging teams and has given demonstrations in selecting clothing for high-school girls at minimum cost, jelly making, and bread baking. During one summer she baked all the bread which was used by her family. She refinished her room and that of her brother, which included the painting of floors and refinishing of furniture. Sarah was leader of her club 1 year, and she has also filled the office of secretary, vice president, and president.

Melvin Hunsaker, Lincoln County, joined a 4-H Club 8 years ago, and has been interested in sheep, dairy cattle, and garden products. He has exhibited his sheep and livestock, been a member of the livestock judging team, and has given many public demonstrations. Melvin has been instrumental in reorganizing the club groups in his community and has given fine cooperation in carrying out the community and county events. He was vice president of his club 4 years and president 1 year. At present he has two Holstein cows, and two heifer calves.

